

What think Ye about The Bible?

Whose voices about the Bible do you believe? NBC, ABC, CBS or CNN? They occasionally have programs about the Bible. Are these voices accurate about the Bible? When you hear these programs, how do you discern if what you heard was true?

Several years ago I took morning walks with a neighborhood friend, who claimed to be a Christian. He often asked me questions about a program he watched on one of the MSM channels.

After many questions and answers, I finally approached his queries in the following manner.

Why do you watch/ listen to programs about the Bible which have been produced by people who generally have a disdain for God, and for Jesus Christ; who mock the necessity of the Spiritual New Birth, who deny the virgin birth of Jesus, and who historically have been utterly critical of the moral claims of the Bible?

I told him that one of the many truth claims of the Bible is that while the books and letters have been penned by men, each word (in the original autographs) has been "inspired" (God Breathed) by the Holy Spirit of God. In addition, a related truth claim of the Bible is that the Christian life is primarily a "spiritual" life as a result of the Holy Spirit having taken up residence in the sinner, who has repented and trusted Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

The fact is that virtually all the producers within the realm of the MSM either deny these Biblical truth claims, or they do not understand these spiritual truths. Therefore, how could we expect these people to tell us anything reliable about the Bible? It is simply not reasonable to expect light to break forth out of darkness.

So, where would we go to find out accurate and truthful information about the Bible having concluded that it is not found within the main realm of our culture? Or, what criterion should be used to evaluate whether what we hear/read about the Bible is truthful or slanted by anti Christian biases.

My heart is stirred!
There are a multiplicity of voices out there.
